

ADFAS Brisbane At Home April 2020 Newsletter

We realise that in the present circumstances ADFAS Brisbane is not in the position to carry out the promised 2020 program.

BUT, the Lecturer's Committee has been working feverishly (if I am allowed to use this word) with some of our ADFAS lecturers who have risen to the challenge of producing from their sitting rooms, lectures that our members can watch online and we are delighted to offer you the first of our online lectures.

Matthew Laing B Arts (Hons), B Dest, PhD is an Australian fascinated by the architecture and the cultural and political history of the United States and how it became such a complex society. He has produced an online lecture about Columbus, Indiana: the Unsung Home of American Modernist Architecture.

This is a story of how the vision and passion of one man transformed his hometown into an architectural legacy with 60 buildings listed as national landmarks. J. Irwin Mill, CEO of the Cummins Corporation believed that good architecture shapes public life and wasn't afraid to work with world-leading architects to design public and community spaces.

There is no password necessary. The video runs for Kind Regards

Susie Craig,
Chairman, ADFAS Brisbane ADFAS Brisbane

about an hour 15 minutes which is just a little longer than our monthly lectures. You can watch it on your iPhone, iPad, computer and smart TV. We have attached the instructions on how to watch the YouTube video on your smart TV. However, when I gave Dad (93) the option of watching the video on my computer with me, he found it very comfortable.

It has been heartwarming to receive so many messages of support from many of our members and we hope you enjoy this lecture. We plan to offer you another lecture to replace the April one that could not be held.

The world we are living in is a new reality and some innovations may become a welcome addition to our ADFAS program. Our Committee and the National ADFAS team are dedicated to providing you the best possible arts experience under these extreme circumstances. We hope you enjoy this video that Matthew produced for ADFAS.

M: 0467 55 66 59
E: Susie.craig@gmail.com

There is no cost to our members and you may watch this video as often as you like, over the next 4-6 months. It is on YouTube and the link will take you there immediately.

Even though we have bought the video for our members, it is still covered under Intellectual Property rights. You may watch it with a friend but please don't send it out to all your friends to watch.